1. Since their return to Poland, the members of the crew of the M.S. PRACA have been very much favored by the régime authorities. The majority of them have been decorated with various orders.
2. The crew were interrogated in the office of the chief director of the Central Administration of the Polish Merchant Marine. One of the questions asked was on which lines and on which ships they would like to sail in the future.
3. After all the celebrations in connection with their welcome were over, they were sent on leave with their families to various health centers, at State expense.
4. The families of those members of the crew who refused to return are not at present suffering any unpleasant consequences.
